

ADAMS CO. SOLDIER BOYS

GIVEN GREAT POPULAR DEMONSTRATION ON LEAVING.

Hundreds of Our People Wave and Cheer the Honor Roll a Farewell as Train Pulls Out.

According to the last instructions of Provost General Crowder the local Exemption Board sent fifty per cent. of the quota of Adams county to Camp Meade on Thursday morning.

The work of the Local Board can not be fully appreciated by our people. Only the three men know what it has meant, and it has been the hardest six weeks of labor they have ever lived through. Dr. J. P. Dalbey, Sheriff H. J. Hartman and County Commissioner Harry B. Slagle started on their duties as the Local Board of Adams County on Aug. 8th, and they have practically been on the job day and night and Sundays, working most of the days until past midnight. They had to handle nearly a hundred different kinds of forms. The clerical work was gigantic, and the work of comparing and correcting seemed never to reach an end. Patiently and persistently they worked away and when the time of the call came they had the full number asked, fifty per cent. of the quota, or 120 men.

The Local Board has called and examined 1166 men, almost one-half of the men registered from the county. Of this number 175 did not claim exemption and successfully passed the physical examination. It is believed that there have been enough examinations after all claims for exemptions have been disposed of to furnish the full quota of 240 men.

The Adams county boys called to the colors in this first fifty per cent. were sent notices to come to the Court House on Wednesday afternoon. Those who were not able to make the trip home and return Thursday morning were quartered Wednesday night at the City Hotel and forty of the boys spent the night there. The entire one hundred and twenty gathered in the court room Thursday morning and received their last instructions from the Board. The company was placed in charge of John W. Hartman, son of Sheriff Hartman, who is one of the 120, to whom was given all the papers. The Fourth Regiment Band, playing "Away Down Upon the Swane River," led the Adams county boys to the train. The streets and Square were crowded with our people cheering and bidding the boys goodbye and hundreds packed Carlisle street as the boys entrained and the Band played. There was hand clapping and cheers as the train pulled out and many eyes sparkled suspiciously of other emotions. It was no planned demonstration but a great popular heart throbbing demonstration of the home folks bidding our boys God-speed on their journey.

Early Thursday morning came orders for exactly 120 men to be sent, though previous instructions had indicated a larger number. It was necessary to excuse nine of the boys present to bring the number to 120 men. Adams county will have in camp 120 of her quota, for six of her sons who had registered and would have gone with this first quota had already enlisted and are in camp. The full list of county boys upon the Roll of Honor to make the world safe for democracy are the following:

The coaches the Adams county boys occupied went through to Camp Meade on Thursday and have been assigned to the part of the cantonment known as "Block S" which includes the recruits from Adams, Berks, Cumberland, Dauphin, Lancaster, Lehigh, Lebanon, Schuylkill and York counties.

In the list of the 120 men there were twenty-two who had asked exemption and were refused. The entire number will be given a thorough examination by the regimental surgeons under the National Army standards.

Major General Kuhn.

The boys will have the best of care under the command of Major General Joseph E. Kuhn, who declares there is to be no opera bouffe at Camp Meade, but that everything is to be run facing "somewhere in France." He insists there will be no nightly journeys to Baltimore to have the soldiers batting their eyes effected by the glare of the bright lights. Everybody, officers and men alike, are going to stay right in the camp, except as Gen. Kuhn says, "when some of his folks are sick or there is a funeral in the family." "Every mother who has a boy and every father, too," said General Kuhn, discussing the future, "has put the care of that young fellow up to me. The parents of 40,000 men are going to hold me responsible and I'm going to send every one of these chaps over there fit. I have been in Germany and I'm going to send no untrained men against that military machine."

Certain officers are doomed to be "scraped," and Kuhn says he won't hesitate a minute to recommend their dismissal if he feels that the good of the service demands.

"A square deal for everybody and officers command men," is his slogan. He says it will hold during the entire training period.

One thing Kuhn would like to eliminate as far as Camp Meade is concerned is the talk of peace. In his soldier lexicon it is "rot."

"What's the use of feeding a lot of men who are going to train as soldiers with talk of peace?" he insists. "With Germany taking Riga and the military machine always on the move, why should the Kaiser want peace? Certainly he wants to have a lot of that talk disseminated, for it makes the United States citizens think that they haven't much to do. But I don't want any of that talk down here."

"This is serious business for 40,000 men here, and the folks back home have to be serious, too. I don't think that I can beat the Kaiser by calling him names, so I'm getting ready to fight him and I'm going to get 40,000 of the best boys in Pennsylvania, Washington and Maryland ready for the same purpose."

MANY CHURCH WEDDINGS

METHODIST CHURCH SCENE OF FASHIONABLE WEDDING.

First Church Military Wedding Took Place in Presbyterian Church.

The Methodist Church on last Saturday evening was the scene of a fashionable wedding, Miss Esther Diehl Crouse being united in marriage to Charles Paul Cessna by Dr. R. S. Oyler, pastor of the church in presence of a large assemblage of friends and relatives. The church was effectively decorated with evergreens.

Before the wedding Raymond Samuel sang "I Love You," and the Lohengrin March was played by Miss Reba Miller as the processional.

The bridal party entered the church in the following order:

Dr. Oyler was followed by the bridegroom and his best man, Professor Chester Allen up the eastern aisle. The four ushers entered by the western aisle. They were L. D. Matter, P. E. Stermer, Chester Buffington, and C. N. Chamberlain, all fraternity brothers of Mr. Cessna. The bridesmaids followed, Miss Norma Burgoon of Gettysburg, and Miss Esther Loban of Harrisburg. They wore gowns of Nile green satin and carried bouquets of asters. Miss Margaret Kendelehart was maid of honor. She wore yellow satin, trimmed with yellow net and gold lace and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. Edmund Singmaster, Jr., the ring bearer, and Rebecca Ziegler, the flower girl, preceded the bride and her father.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of bridal satin with silk net and pearl trimming. It was made with court train and her veil was caught with pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies. The ring service was used and the Mendelssohn March was used as the recessional. After the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride on Baltimore street, which was decorated in a color scheme of white, green and yellow. Later in the evening the newlyweds left on their honeymoon to one of the seaside resorts.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace A. Crouse. She is a graduate of Gettysburg High School in the class of 1913. Mr. Cessna graduated from Gettysburg College in 1915 and since then has occupied the position of assistant in physics at that institution. Mr. and Mrs. Cessna will be at home at 218 Baltimore street after December 1st.

Among the guests present from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. W. Austin Cessna, Chester Cessna, Ralph Cessna, and Miss Reda Cessna, all of Rainsburg; Mrs. Gross of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Smyder of West Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Singmaster, of Germantown; Mrs. Joseph Sheely, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sheely, Miss Ness, of York; Guy Appier, of Altoona; the Misses Chamberlain, of Asbury Park; Miss Myers, of Spring Grove; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Weikert, Miss Bertha Weikert, Harvey Taughnbaugh, of New Oxford; and the following from Littlestown: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weikert, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Weikert, Mr. and Mrs. John Rudisill, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Weaver, Mrs. John Mayers, Mrs. Burton Alleman, Dr. and Mrs. Stoner, Mrs. Jane Weaver, Mrs. Myrtle Newman, Miss Romaine Crouse, Harry Myers, Theodore Sheely, Mrs. Edwin Crouse, Miss Lydia Robert, Miss Jennie Harner, and Miss Ada Weikert.

Angus-Simpson.—The first church military wedding in Gettysburg since camp has been located here took place last Thursday evening in the Presbyterian Church. Lieutenant Gaylord Angus and Miss Helen Simpson, both of Chicago, were married by Rev. F. E. Taylor, pastor. It was also the first wedding since the church has been refurbished. A huge American flag draped the back of the pulpit. Miss Reba Miller played the Lohengrin March as the wedding party entered the church. Four ushers, Lieutenants Philgarde, Russell, Rock and Brown, preceded the bride and her father up the northern aisle of the church and between a double row of thirty-two officers. At the chancel they were met by the bridegroom and his best man, Lieutenant Sherman. The ring service was used and the wedding party left the church again by the northern aisle and between the double row of officers. Later in the evening supper was served at the Willow Lunch Room and after a brief wedding tour Lieutenant and Mrs. Angus will be at home here where he is stationed with the 61st Infantry. Included among the guests at the ceremony were the parents of both bride and groom, the officers of the 61st Regiment, and members of the Presbyterian congregation.

Lawrence—Eckenrode.—Wednesday morning in St. Aloysius Church, Littlestown, Miss Mabel Eckenrode, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eckenrode, was united in marriage to a nuptial mass to Claude Lawrence of Mt. Rock. The ceremony was performed by the bride's pastor, Rev. W. J. O'Callaghan. The attendants were Miss Bernadette Lawrence, sister of the groom and the bride's

September Argument Court.

President Judge D. P. McPherson and Associate Judges W. Howard Dicks and E. P. Miller presided at the argument court held on Monday.

Judge McPherson filed two opinions. The case of the Western Maryland Railway Co. vs. A. A. Gruber for freight on shipments had been tried before the court without a jury. The railway claimed $393.58 of freight and accounts showing same were offered in evidence. Defendant claimed some offset. The Judge upon review of the evidence entered a verdict in favor of the railroad for the full amount of their claim for freight on stock shipments.

In the matter of a wage claim of Jacob E. Rummel vs. John R. Kuhn, which had been argued recently, opinion was filed giving plaintiff, Jacob E. Rummel, $350.

In the action of trespass for slander by Francis J. Dunn vs. Wellington Rittase, a rule was granted on plaintiff to file a bill of particulars, returnable Oct. 15.

Order of sale was granted J. Frank and Albert Hartlaub, executors of Sarah Hartlaub, to sell a farm of 40 acres in Mt. Pleasant township, held for use of the husband.

The account of J. L. Williams, trustee to sell the real estate of Thad. L. Welty and Annie L. Welty, late of Gettysburg, was confirmed showing a balance of $3368.69.

The account of C. H. Rickrode, administrator of Aaron Rickrode, late of Mt. Joy township, was confirmed with a balance of $5993.

Theodore L. Low was appointed judge of elections in Fairfield.

George Cook, accused of entering the dwelling of W. O. Lyles, sentence was suspended and defendant was put upon good behavior. A report at any time by Mr. Lyles of improper conduct will result in the arrest and sentence of Cook.

Blanche M. Golden of Gettysburg was sentenced to Glen Mills by Judge McPherson as an incorrigible. She had been beyond all control of parents for some time and this condition has been emphasized since the camp has been here. She had been placed in jail several times in effort to bring about better behavior but without result. She has been known to throw coat and hat out of the window and jump after them, when forbidden to go out. It was evident that she needed supervision such as will be given at the Glen Mills School, Frankfort.

Eagle Hotel Has New Manager.

Charles A. Clement has disposed of his lease to Eagle Hotel to Herman Polenz of Philadelphia who will take possession as soon as license is transferred. Mr. Clement came here in the spring from the Commonwealth Hotel, Harrisburg, and has successfully conducted the place during the big summer season of this year, but the work has been a great strain upon him and for this reason he has sold his lease. Mr. Polenz has been steward of the Merion Cricket Club of Philadelphia, an organization of 3000 members. Later he was connected with the Marlborough-Blenheim of Atlantic City and for a time with the Bellevue-Stratford of Philadelphia.

PARENT TEACHERS MEETING

FIRST OF THE SCHOOL YEAR HELD LAST FRIDAY.

Second Friday Evening of Each Month Should be Devoted to Welfare of Children.

The Parent-Teachers' Association held the first meeting of the school year on Friday evening of last week in the High School Building.

Miss Helen Cope, supervising principal of the schools of the town, voiced the opinion of a number of our citizens when she declared that the welfare of the children of the town was so important that the town should set aside one night each month, the second Friday night of each month, upon which to meet in session, as the Parent-Teachers' Association, to confer together to promote the welfare of the children in school and home. It is a small amount of time asked and it should be easy for churches, organizations and individuals to give. Make no engagements, fix no event on the second Friday evening of the month. It is the one evening in a whole month asked to be devoted to the children.

Mrs. H. M. Roth presided over the meeting and Miss Mary Benner as secretary of the meeting read the minutes. The entertainment features were vocal solos by Mrs. R. Lee Hoffman and piano solo by Miss Jessie King. Rev. Paul R. Pontius made an excellent speech on "The Relation of the Father to the Son," and Miss Becker of the Y. M. C. A. on "The Relation of the Mother to the Daughter." Both speakers urged more intimate and candid relations between parent and children, to help solve school problems as well as individual problems of the young.

Miss Helen Cope, supervising principal of our schools, gave an outline of new methods that would be introduced in our schools this year. In the primary grades the children will be allowed to leave their desks and go to another part of the room where small chairs and rug will be provided and after this variety they will return to desks and studies rested and refreshed. In the intermediate grades walks outside for observation and resting purposes will be allowed and in the grammar schools pupils will leave buildings at times for study of community civics. Similar methods will be followed in the High School, all with the purpose of developing healthy, happy efficient and serviceable citizens. Co-operation of parents was urged, a minute or two of the father's time on a visit to the school room. They will not disturb the school work and this co-operation will greatly help the schools, for the citizens will better understand what is being done.

The banner for the school having the largest number of parents present was a draw between the Senior Class of the High School and the Eighth Grade, each to have it two weeks.

The program committee for the next month appointed was Mrs. R. C. Miller, Mrs. William Gilbert, and Miss Maud Miller. The visiting committee Mrs. C. B. Dougherty, Mrs. A. Z. Rogers, Mrs. F. Mark Bream, and Mrs. E. E. Slaybaugh.

College Opened.

Gettysburg College opened the new year on Wednesday morning with special services in Brua Chapel. Dr. Bickle read Scripture lesson, Dr. Valentine offering prayer and Dr. Granville addressed the student body, welcoming them and making announcements.

The college opens with a Freshman class larger than last year, the total enrollment however being short about twenty per cent. The loss is largely in the higher classes, due to commissions won at Niagara, and men of an age to be drafted into the army. The Freshman class numbers 105, as against 100 in last year's class.

Major Graham has started with the military training which meant so much to the Gettysburg College men at Niagara, giving the institution a better record than any other institution in the country, and in these days of war the military feature of the college course is one of inestimable advantage to the institution.

The College will have several new instructors:

M. L. Burdick, A. M. University of Chicago, of Cambridge Springs, who will be assistant in the department of English and Public Speaking.

F. A. Faust, B.S., State College of Quakake, assistant in the Engineering work.

A. P. Ringler, A.B., Gettysburg, of Berlin, Pa., assistant in German and French.

New Garage at York Springs.

The York Springs Garage has been completed by its builder, Dr. H. A. Underwood, and is being conducted by Albert R. Jacobs. The garage fronts 40 feet on State street and runs along Main street 60 feet. The structure has a brownstone finish with red and gray tiled roof. It is lighted by large skylight. Two colonial columns support the imposing entrance to building. Above the entrance rises a miniature tower capped by weather vane and ball. Its appointments are of the best and it is declared that no town of its size has a better garage than York Springs.

WEDDINGS.

Mrs. Luther Harner. The wedding march "O Promise Me," was played by Miss Anna Galt of Tancetown. The bride wore a handsome gown of white silk trimmed with tulle and pearls and beads.

Young-Kiggins.—Announcements have been received here of the marriage last Friday of Miss Ruth Norton Kiggins and Henry Sherwood Young. The wedding took place at Elizabeth, N. J. Mr. Young is well known in Gettysburg where he has frequently visited his uncle and aunt. Dr. and Mrs. G. D. Stahley, who attended the wedding.

Atno-Huff.—Clarence Atno, formerly of Hanover, now proprietor of the National Hotel of Littlestown, and Miss Mary Huff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Huff, Hanover, were married at Lutheran parsonage, Littlestown, by Rev. W. K. Fleck. There were no attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Atno will reside at the National Hotel.

Abel-Brown.—Sheldon K. Abel of Littlestown, formerly of Wrightsville, and Miss Stella Loraine Brown, of Littlestown, were married Thursday, Sept. 6, in Wrightsville by the Rev. G. Wm. Millar, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church.

Latchaw-Schmuck.—On last Saturday morning Franklin Latchaw of Co. K, Pennsylvania Infantry, and a Regular stationed at the Gettysburg camp, went to the home of Elmer Schmuck, near Red Lion, both determined to marry Miss Beulah Schmuck. The young woman said the Regular, who was a Southerner, insisted he was the one who was going to marry her and that if she married Latchaw he would kill her. Of course the young woman did the very thing she was told not to do. She gave the Regular the slip and Justice of the Peace Minnich of Red Lion married the two and then the wedding party returned home and father of bride persuaded the soldier who had lost to leave quietly.

Announces Engagement.

Mrs. J. O. Blocher of Seminary Ridge announces the engagement of her daughter, Hester Ann Blocher, to Guy Milton Appler of Altoona. Mr. Tippler was formerly of Gettysburg but is employed as a chemist by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in Altoona. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Appler of East High street.

Forty Years Service.

C. W. Stoner, Esq., returned Wednesday evening from a ten days visit with his brother, Dr. George W. Stoner and family of New York City, and his sister, Mrs. Ida Diller, of Brooklyn. A recent issue of the New York Sun contained the following notice:

"Senior Surgeon George W. Stoner, United States Public Health Service, in charge of the Marine Hospital at Stapleton, for the last four years, and formerly in charge of the immigration medical work at Ellis Island, has been retired from active duty, having served forty years and reached the age of 64."

Dr. George W. Stoner is a native of Adams county, having been born in East Berlin and has won many honors in the years of his service. He was one of the ten Senior Surgeons in the U. S. service. Marine Hospitals at New York, Buffalo, Detroit, Portland, Maine, Philadelphia, and Baltimore.

Red Cross News.

The Gettysburg Red Cross Chapter has given out in the past ten days one hundred pounds of wool to the various branches doing Red Cross knitting in the county. The second hundred pounds has already been ordered but as there is great demand for this material and usually some delay in shipping, it will be several days before it will arrive. The Gettysburg Chapter buys the wool and then the branches throughout the county buy from the local chapter as much as they need. Miss Annie Horner, Chambersburg street, chairman of the knitting committee has charge of this work and application for wool should be made to her.

Mrs. L. H. Rice, Mrs. Laura Pettis, Mrs. Raffensperger, and Miss Sheely, of the Arendtsville branch, visited the Red Cross rooms, on Thursday.

ARENDSVILLE.

The farmers are busy sowing fall grain and taking up their potatoes and cutting off corn.

Several days ago we noticed in the Harrisburg paper that 500 chickens were run over and killed by automobiles in Pennsylvania. If there were as many killed in the other States in the Union it will cause a shortage in the egg production and cause still higher prices of living.

The frost on Monday night showed its effect on the sweet potatoes and pumpkin vines along the Cone-wago Creek.

Harry Little and wife of Pittsburgh were recent guests in the homes of Mrs. Henry Little, his mother, and Rev. D. T. Koser, his brother-in-law.

Hiram W. Trostle had a new slate roof put on his store room.

Miss Alice L. Dome has returned from a three weeks' visit with relatives in Franklin county.

Where Thousands See It Daily

The Bell directory is the most used book in town—it's the book to which you turn when there's a telephone call to make or an address to look up or a name or initials to verify. The Index of Advertisers is a means for locating the man who offers for sale what you want to buy when you want to buy it—perhaps a man you've never heard of.

And how about YOUR goods or services? Are they advertised in the telephone directory pages and listed in the Index? Are you "displaying your wares" in the show-window that is at every telephone user's elbow, every day in the year?

Bret Harte and the West.

The west is still an indefinite term, and many things have been called western which more strictly were far western. The efflorescence of California in the brilliant satire of Bret Harte, to name him only who was first of the east in the new conditions of the Pacific slope. It had no root in the soil, and none of the poets who formed the San Francisco school of Harte's day were of California birth, much less culture. They were only western by sojourn.

Harte himself, who was first of them, had greater originality in his verse than in his prose, but he was born in and grew up in Albany. The literary atmosphere which he breathed in the west was, as it were, piped from the east, and his ambition was, as the generous estimation of his fellow exiles was for him, to succeed in his prose the literary art of Dr. Holmes.—William Dean Howells in Harper's Magazine.

Teethbrushes.

The toothbrush, now an indispensable article of toilet, is but little older than the American republic itself. Not even Lord (the-terfied used one, for writing to his son in 1754, he said: "I beg you take great care of your mouth and teeth and that you clean them every morning with a sponge and tepid water with a few drops of aromatic water dropped into it. I do not think you have ever using those sticks or any hard substance whatever which will abrade the gums and destroy the surface of the teeth."

In "The House of the Seven Gables" Hawthorne made Lucie Castleton spend "a tenth part of her day in the brushing of his teeth and the oiling of his hair," and in doing so the novelist committed a double anachronism. Not only was the toothbrush unknown but during the first half of the eighteenth century all fine gentlemen wore wigs and had no use for oil on their hair.—New York Sun.

Strange Proof of Heredity.

So far as his work is concerned we remember a recently poet named Richard Savage for one solitary line—that in which he speaks of the "tenth transmitter of a foolish face." It catches the notion of heredity and suggests the sort of wonderful family likeness of which one has just been told to the Royal Society of Medicine.

The first Earl of Shrewsbury, who died in 1450, was born with a physical peculiarity—the little finger and the finger adjoining on each hand had only one joint, the first two bones being united. The same abnormality affected all the toes except the big ones. Today in a direct masculine descendant of the first earl the same extraordinary formation persists. It was transmitted to him by his father and to his father from his grandfather and has come down unchanged through nearly 500 years, passing through fourteen generations.—London Standard.

Defining a Wife.

The pretty schoolteacher had asked her class for the best original definition of "wife," and the boy in the corner promptly responded, "A rib."

She looked at him reproachfully and nodded to the boy with dreamy eyes, who seemed anxious to say something.

"Man's guiding star and guardian angel," he said in response to the nod.

"A helpmeet," put in a little flaxen haired girl.

"One who soothes man in adversity," suggested a demure little girl.

"One who makes a man hustle," was the next suggestion.

"And keeps him from making a fool of himself," put in another girl.

"Some one for a man to find fault with when he goes wrong," said a sorrowful little maiden.

"That's the best definition,"—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

"Stop there," said the schoolteacher. "That's the best definition."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Antiquity.

Antiquity' thou, wondrous charm what art thou, that, being nothing, art everything? When thou wert thou wert not and antiquity—then thou wert nothing, but hadst a remoter antiquity as thou calledst it, to look back to with blind veneration, thou thyself being thyself that, jejeune, modern! What mystic lurks in this retroversion, or what half Janus are we that cannot look forward with the same idolatry with which we forever revert! The mighty future is as nothing, being everything; the past is everything, being nothing!—Charles Lamb.

Trying Experience.

Railway Journeys of Long Ago.

It was only the adventurous who dared to face a railway journey in 1828. A writer of that time commenting on the proposed line to Woolwich, remarked, "We would as soon expect the people of Woolwich to suffer themselves to be trod off upon one of Congreve's rockets as trust themselves to the mercy of such a machine going at such a rate." The third class carriage of those days was a thing of horror "It had no roof and no seats," writes J. C. Wilt "into this the passengers were packed and had to stand during the whole journey or if there was room to sit on the floor, exposed to the rain or sun and bombarded by sparks emitted from the engine. Second class passengers were kindly advised to provide themselves with gaiters, spectacles and to sit as far from the engine as possible."—London Spectator.

Man More Liquid Than Solid.

Every fiber and every cell that enters into the formation of a living body is bathed in moisture, in which means alone these minute elements are kept alive and are enabled to carry out their duties. Even the bones, which appear to be the most solid of all, owe more than half their weight to the presence of fluid. That our bodies contain a large amount of fluid is proved in a striking manner by the blisters which rise after the infliction of a burn. Water, in fact, plays a very important part in the human anatomy, for it is through its agency that the vital processes of digestion, absorption and the excretion of waste products are carried out. To reduce the whole matter to figures and taking 151 pounds to be the total weight of an average full grown man, it is said that water alone accounts for 100 pounds of the whole.

Spain and the Mustache.

The home of the mustache is in Spain, and here is the history of its origin. After the Moors had invaded the country the Christian and Moslem population became so mixed that it was difficult to say which were Moors and which Spaniards. The Spaniards then hit upon a means by which they could at once distinguish their brethren. They did not shave their lips any longer, and they allowed a tuft of hair to grow below their under lips, so that their beards formed the rude outline of a cross. Thus the mustache became a symbol of liberty and fraternity.—Exchange.

You Must Be Earnest.

That which dominates the life, which is ever uppermost in the mind, generally comes somewhere near realization; but there is a great difference between a lukewarm desire and a red-hot purpose. It takes steam to drive the piston in the engine; warm water will never turn the wheels. The longings that fall of realization are usually just below the boiling point.—Orison Swett Marden.

The Better Plan.

WONDERFUL POTATO CROP

A SURPLUS OF ONE HUNDRED MILLION BUSHELS.

Pennsylvania is in Fifth Place as a Potato Producing State.

Estimates of the potato crops expected in the various states this season indicate that Pennsylvania will drop from third to fifth place as a producing State, but that in increased production over the general average for the past five years it has far outranked its rivals.

The figures for Pennsylvania indicate a crop of over 32,000,000 bushels while the five year average from 1911 to 1915 inclusive was 23,125,000 bushels. This shows an increase in production over the average of 40 per cent. Michigan, which promises to regain first place as a producing State, shows an increase over the five year average of 33 per cent.; New York, which promises to rank second, an increase of 30 per cent.; Wisconsin, which will rank third, 23 per cent. and Minnesota, which estimates place slightly ahead of Pennsylvania for fourth place, shows an increase of but 12 per cent.

Last year Maine carried off the production honors and New York was second, but the Maine crop this season is said to be a poor one and will be below the average and even smaller than that of a year ago. Most of the States show wonderful increases over the crop of a year ago, the Pennsylvania increase running over 70 per cent.

In corn production the Pennsylvania farmers show an increase over ten million bushels over 1916 and an increase of 11 per cent. over the average production for five years. In oats the increased production is about 15 per cent. over the general average crop for five years.

From all sections of the State, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture is receiving reports of increased acreages being prepared for wheat and rye and it is expected that the farmers of the Keystone State will more than make good the extra 14 per cent. acreage in wheat and 25 per cent. acreage in rye urged by both the National and State Departments.

BACKACHE IS A WARNING

Gettysburg People Should Not Neglect Their Kidneys.

Backache is often nature's most frequent signal of weakened kidneys. To cure the pains and aches, to remove the lameness when it arises from weakened kidneys, you must reach the cause—the kidneys. If you have pain through the small of your back, bladder disorders, headaches, dizzy spells, or are nervous and depressed, start treating the kidneys with a tested kidney remedy.

Doan's Kidney Pills have been proved good and are especially for weak kidneys. Doan's have been used in kidney trouble for over 50 years. Read Gettysburg testimony.

END OF WAR PREDICTION
WITH A VERY CLEAR RESUME OF RESULTS OF WAR.

A Philadelphian Makes Guess that September 1918, Will See the End of the War.

A Philadelphian, George H. Borst, in a recent issue of the Public Ledger presents the following interesting resume of the war and predictions therefrom.

In the late summer of 1916 I predicted April 1, 1917, as the probable date of America's entrance into the European war, at the same time submitting in detail my reasons for this prognostication. The approximate correctness of that prediction leads me to hazard another prophecy, this time on the war's duration, a question paramount in the minds of all men to-day.

Out of the amazing mass of conflicting reports and rumors one fact at least appears to me so clear and convincing that its meaning cannot be mistaken. The reversion of Germany to ruthless submarine warfare was a frank admission that the Imperial Government no longer believed it possible to win the war by universally recognized methods of warfare. It seems clear that the consequences of this policy must have been carefully weighed; that among its certain results could be counted the early entrance into the war of many neutrals, foremost of which would almost certainly be the United States; that, of the remaining neutrals, almost all would become potential enemies (a fact which must have caused grave apprehension in any consideration of Germany's commercial future) and lastly, that the empire by such action would necessarily brand itself as an outlaw nation in the eyes of all humanity. Only desperation could account for Germany's decision, for in the words of Romain Rolland, "What is the value of life when you have saved it at the price of all that is worth living for?" In the war of 1870 all records show that Prussia observed scrupulously the accepted rules of warfare, but then Prussia was an easy victor. To-day, however, she finds herself in the position of the cornered criminal, ready to grasp at any straw which may promise victory; scratching, biting, kicking, but willing to sacrifice even honor to attain her goal. Such, it seems, is the interpretation we must place on submarine warfare, and upon the success or failure of this warfare depends in large degree Germany's future as a military power. Lacking submarine success (and unless Germany is able to starve the English people into submission and to secure possession of the British fleet complete success is impossible), defeat is inevitable. In a war of attrition Germany must lose. Accepting then the view that submarine warfare was adopted as a last hope, he must be a confirmed pessimist who sees a chance of ultimate success for the submarine. With the keenest minds of the world concentrated on the solution of this problem, we may rest assured that some means will be found to combat this evil. It is hardly likely, however, that the full realization of the U-boats' failure will be admitted by the German people before the summer of 1918.

Further reasons also tend to substantiate these opinions. There is the growing discontent in Austria-Hungary, magnified a thousandfold by Russia's declaration of "no annexations and no indemnities." The Slav peril that argument used so ruthlessly by the Prussians to terrify and unify the Germanic peoples for the last forty years, has virtually disappeared. Therefore if the Russian armies continue to fall back, fear (the great underlying cause of so many wars) from that quarter will be lessened and a strong moral reason for continuing a losing fight removed. If, on the other hand, Russia stays in the fight (and I believe by the spring of 1918 Russia will develop formidable military power), her strength alone may prove a decisive factor to the Allies. Added to these reasons we find American troops appearing in constantly increasing numbers on European battlefields, we read from every quarter of the diminishing food supply in Germany, of the growing boldness of the Reichstag of the Polish troops' refusal in Germany and Hungary to fight their comrades and relatives in Russia. We see the strangulation hold of the Allies taking effect on every hand; Italy gradually driving a wedge between two Austrian armies; France recovering ground at Verdun, and England hammering the heart out of the German troops in Flanders, and all the time counter-attacks becoming feebler and more infrequent.

Taken these facts that are only apparent to the German people: their homes may still be pined to the submarine or to a separate peace with Russia. They will be another winter before being the beneficiaries of a truce, but with spring will come a reckoning. Defeat, hunger and failure will force the issue. By common sense a picture of peace may reasonably be looked for, and by late summer or early fall (I have seen September as a date) a cessation of fighting will probably come, a permanent peace will be achieved in the end of the year. Thus, the prediction seems rash. Time alone will prove the truth, but the prediction on the war's duration, clear and unmistakable and to me, spells the end of the war.

Village Life In China.

Chinese village life is essentially democratic, almost communist. There are not lords, have not been for centuries—feudal lords or even great lords. It is a country of peasant proprietors, clan government, with practically all the men of middle age and over in a community having equal voice and authority in local affairs, with land split up smaller and more equally than in any other country in the world.

EXPORT BUSINESS GROWING

Our Great Ally Possesses Recuperative Powers Which Justify Belief that She Will Meet and Solve Triumphantly the Problems Which Confront Her After the War.

With Paris Boulevards echoing with "vives" for American troops our interest in the welfare of our ally vastly increases, and the facts are not lacking to encourage the belief that she is already on the road to recovery from the blow of invasion by a ruthless enemy.

One of the most important developments is the announcement that one of the largest banking institutions in America concerned with foreign trade the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, has opened a Paris branch to handle the rapidly increasing volume of French business.

This action may surprise many persons who had thought of France as

The increasing activity of her railway system is similarly demonstrable. In 1906, there were in France 10,743 miles of railroad track; in 1912, there were 31,540 miles.

Between 1890 and 1912, inland navigation increased 150%; while the traffic of her mercantile marine had amazingly expanded. The tonnage entering French ports in 1890 is set down as 11,000,000 tons. In 1912, this had been increased to 53,000,000 tons.

Leaders in American finance ascribe the solidarity of the French republic to three influences: first, a thoroughly sound banking system, centralized in one of the greatest banking institutions of the world, the Bank of France, second, the ingrained thrift and frugality of the French people as a whole, together with a national economic vigor not elsewhere surpassed; third, wise supervision, and patriotic cooperation by the government with banking and business interests.

The government does its part to warrant and retain the confidence of the holders of its securities. One of its wise policies is to impose new taxes to defray the interest charges on new security issues. It began this practice after the Franco-Prussian War, and is today following the same rule in regard to securities issued to finance the present conflict. This continuity of purpose, doubtless, will prove reassuring to all holders of French government securities.

The Franco-Prussian war of 1870-1871 taught the French people the meaning of thrift and economy. So well did they learn this lesson, that the whole sum of the indemnity demanded by Germany, $1,000,000,000, was raised within the republic's con-bowed under a calamitous invasion. The bank, however, gives figures indicating that France is not only meeting her military and civilian problems with a stout heart and never failing courage, but is re-establishing her export business with this country.

In 1914, the year of the outbreak of the War, imports from France to this country totaled $141,446,252. This total was reduced to $77,158,740 in 1915, but last year the value of French imports to the United States rose to $102,077,060.

"A nation that can achieve such a commercial recovery while her territory is being ravished by the invader," says the Trust company's statement, "possesses recuperative powers which justify the belief that she will emerge from the present conflict prepared to meet and solve triumphantly the problems which confront her."

The commercial and industrial record of France, following past wars, indicates that she should recover quickly from the actual physical destruction inflicted in the present conflict. The reconstruction of railroads, the erection of factories to replace those destroyed, and the replacement of the mechanism lines by its own inhabitants and paid off more than one year before the time stipulated by the Germans.

The habit thus acquired has never been forgotten by the French, and today the aggregate number of investors purchasing the French war loans has reached the amazing total of 4,500,000 individual subscribers. Perhaps no other country, in proportion to its population, can make so good a showing.

France is particularly fortunate in that her small investors prefer "safe" investments rather than offerings which promise high returns. Government Rentes, in France are perpetual, and this characteristic seems to obtain for these government bonds increasing favor in the eyes of the French people.

The points of sympathy between France and America are too many to enumerate, but the spirit of liberty and its resultant democracy are, today as always, the major ideals of both nations. Seeking no victories but those of peace, no territory except their own, no sovereignty except sovereignty over themselves—the independence and equal rights of the weakest member of the family of nations are to the people of industrial activity that will be required and that is in part already planned, offer a peculiarly inviting field to American capital and enterprise. Tentative steps have already been taken by representatives of American engineers and business men in this work.

Aside from its attractive business aspect, the enlistment of American money and effort in the great task of reconstruction that will remain at the end of the war will tend to cement still more closely the ties that bind the two great Republics together, and will enable Americans to discharge in part the debt they owe to France for her friendly interest in the welfare and progress of the United States from the beginning of its life as a nation.

In judging the industrial status of any nation, its production and consumption of coal, iron, and steel and the growth of its transportation systems are highly significant factors.

In 1870, French industries consumed 21 million tons of coal, of which 13.5 millions were taken from home mines. In 1912, the consumption was 61 millions, of which 41 million tons were taken from home mines.

In 1909, the French output of cast iron was 1,284,000 tons, and of steel, 1,000,000 tons. In 1914, France produced 5,311,000 tons of cast iron and 4,625,000 tons of steel.

of the United States and of France entitled to as much respect as those of the mightiest empire. In defense of these principles, France is engaged in a death struggle with militant autocracy and ruthless aggression, and it is not surprising to learn that she has loaned to her allies and to other friendly states 7,000,000,000 francs with which to further the cause of democracy. It is in keeping with America's traditions that since the date on which we formally aligned ourselves with France and her allies in the great struggle, our Government has lent to France $370,000,000.

It is eminently fitting that America should now be fighting on French soil to make the world safe for democracy. The liberty that America has enjoyed for 140 years France helped her to achieve. The sword of Lafayette and Rochambeau, aided by the guns of De Grasse upon the high seas, assisted in cutting the foreign ties that bound the American colonies prior to the War for Independence, and from the private purse of King Louis himself came the first loan to America—unsecured and unconditional—to finance that historic undertaking. It was with entire justice that Washington wrote to Rochambeau, "To the generous aid of your nation and to the bravery of its sons is to be ascribed in a very great degree that independence for which we have fought."

No Sense of Fitness.

LEADING MT. PLEASANT MAN

ISRAEL A. NOEL PASSES AWAY
IN HIS 60TH YEAR.

Postmaster at Bonneville for Many Years and Carrier on Route 10.

Israel A. Noel, for thirty-five years merchant at Bonneville, and one of the best known residents of Mt. Pleasant township, died at 7 o'clock last Friday evening at his home after an illness of some duration from diabetes and complications, aged 60 years. Mr. Noel had undergone treatment in the West Side Sanitarium, York, but the disease was too far advanced to save his life and he returned to his home. Gangrene developed and other complications resulting in his death. Mr. Noel was born near Square Corner, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Noel. His parents are both dead and his wife, who was Miss Mollie Martin, for a number of years teacher of St. Joseph's Parochial School at Bonneville, died one year ago. For thirty-five years he conducted a general merchandising store at Bonneville. For a number of years he managed a cigar factory, and for many years was Bonneville's postmaster until the rural routes were established and the office there discontinued, when he was appointed rural carrier of route 10, Gettysburg, which he served until this route was cut out several years ago. For years he was a member of St. Joseph's church choir. Bonneville. Funeral was on Monday morning, requiem high mass at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's Church, Bonneville, by Rev. J. B. Shanahan, interment in St. Joseph's Cemetery. He was a member of Capt. Theo. Pfeiffer Camp, Sons of Veterans of New Oxford, and a delegation of members attended the funeral. He leaves three brothers and four sisters: William Noel of Bonneville, Calvin and Francis Noel of Square Corner, Mrs. William T. Smith, Mrs. Belle Hemler and Mrs. Jacob Weaver, all of Bonneville, and Miss Cophie Noel of Hanover.

George A. Kohler, aged 78 years, died at his home in Littlestown Monday evening after a lingering sickness. The funeral was held Thursday at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Littlestown, by Rev. W. K. Fleck. Interment was in the Lutheran Church Cemetery, Littlestown. He leaves his wife and the following children: Theodore Kohler of East Point, Ga., Charles Kohler of Braintree, Mass., Mrs. John Stock of Germantown, Mrs. George Parr, Mrs. H. E. Bowers, Harry A. Kohler, Luther and Miss Bessie Kohler, all of Littlestown, and Miss Emma Kohler of Mt. Carmel. Four sisters also survive: Mrs. Alice Brown of Hanover, Mrs. Abraham Rise and Mrs. Agnes Duttra of Spring Grove, and Mrs. Ellen Stonesifer of New Oxford. William Kohler and Samuel Kohler of New Oxford, are step-brothers of the deceased.

Mrs. Margaret Louisa Sunday, widow of Franklin Sunday, died Thursday night of last week at the home of her son-in-law, Jacob Snyder of West York, following a week's sickness aged 72 years, 4 months and 19 days. She leaves four sons, Harry Sunday of LaBott, Robert Sunday of York, Webster Sunday of East Berlin, Allen Sunday of Weiglestown and one daughter, Mrs. Jacob Snyder with whom she resided. Several brothers and sisters also survive. Funeral was on Monday at Holtzswam Union Church.

Dorothea May Slaybaugh, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Granville S. Slaybaugh of New Oxford, died at their home Sunday evening after lying in a comatose state for five days from an illness believed to have been caused by vaccination. The immediate cause of death was lock jaw. The child was vaccinated on Saturday September 8th, and was about as usual attending school and playing until Tuesday evening, when she went to bed. It was impossible to arouse her the next morning. Her illness was diagnosed as tetanus and she lingered until Sunday evening. It is not known from what other source the infection which caused lock jaw could have come, unless it was from the vaccination, though the appearance of the mark was normal. Funeral was on Wednesday, Rev. C. W. Baker having charge of services.

Mrs. Lucy Ann Sheely, widow of Prof. Aaron Sheely, County Superintendent of Schools for years, died at her home on West Middle street Tuesday morning after a three weeks' illness from heart trouble aged 80 years and 12 days. She was a native of Franklin township, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Deardorff, and was married to Prof. Aaron Sheely of Gettysburg, who died several years ago. She has lived in Gettysburg over 50 years and was a member of St. James Lutheran Church. She leaves three daughters, Mrs. W. K. Diehl of Clear Spring, Md., Mrs. H. Y. Butteroff of Harrisburg, and Miss Sara Sheely of West Middle street. She also leaves three brothers, Adam Deardorff and Jacob Deardorff of Cashtown, and Alfred Deardorff of Mummasburg. Funeral at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon from her late home conducted by Rev. J. B. Baker. Interment in Evergreen Cemetery.

Major John Bigelow, commander of the famous Ninth Massachusetts Battery at Battle of Gettysburg, died at his home in Minneapolis last week aged 76 years. He was a graduate of Harvard University and had lived in Minneapolis since 1883, took an active part in National Guard affairs in the West and was the inventor of a number of appliances used in manufacturing textiles.

Rachel C. Slonaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob G. Slonaker, died at her home on East Middle street on Wednesday evening aged 15 years, 5 months and 23 days. The young girl had been in delicate health for a number of months and little hope of recovery had been entertained. The funeral was held on Friday afternoon with services at the Presbyterian Church by Rev. F. E. Taylor and interment in the Evergreen Cemetery. She leaves besides her parents two sisters, Jannette Slonaker and Helen Slonaker.

Resolutions.

Resolutions on the death of Earl T. Eicholtz, by O. of I. A., adopted Sept. 17th, 1917:

Whereas: Death in its extreme suddenness has visited our lodge and removed from mortal view one of our members; and

Resolved: That in sadness we show our appreciation of the worth and character of our dear Brother, Earl T. Eicholtz, by recording upon the pages of the Council minutes this tribute to his memory.

Resolved: That in his unexpected death all should learn the uncertainty of life, even in the midst of health and strength.

Resolved: That Battlefield Council O. of I. A., by this means, conveys our united sympathy to the devoted widow and the orphan children in these dark moments of bereavement, this intense sorrow, commending them to the condolence which may find solace from this grief in Divine trust is our earnest prayer and hope.

Resolved: That these humble tributes of esteem may shed a ray of consolation to the family and friends in the lonely, cheerless days through life.

Resolved: That these resolutions be recorded in the Council minutes, and this original signed tribute be delivered to the widow and a copy be published in the town papers.

Fire Destroys Store.

The store and dwelling of W. C. Yeatts in Bendersville were totally destroyed by fire on Wednesday morning. The fire originated on second floor of store building where goods were stored and had gained a headway when Mr. Yeatts was awakened. He gave the alarm and the work of saving store and household goods on first floor rapidly proceeded and a large quantity of this property was saved, but the house and store burned to the ground. Neighboring properties were saved. Mr. Yeatts had insurance in the Mummasburg and Gettysburg Mutual Fire Insurance Companies.

How Watches Vary.

Theoretically, says a jeweler, the best watches of today are perfect, but actually they both gain and lose time every day. Even if the good watch does not vary one second at the end of the twenty-four hours, the expert insists, it has both gained and lost in that time. If it is wound in the morning it runs fast and toward the next morning runs slow, thus equalizing the time. He says the best watches should be wound twice a day and then at only two-thirds of the capacity of the main spring, thus preventing either binding or extremes of strong or weakened spring. The balance wheel was expected to equalize differences of main spring tension, but really this is not the case in what is called perfection.

Eye Strain and Its Dangers.

Never allow children to read or do any form of fine work unless there is a bright, steady light, says a medical journal. Working by firelight or in the dusk causes such a strain on young eyes that they never quite recover, and weak or defective vision is the result. Notice whether a child holds books and work very close to the eyes, and if so consult an oculist, so that the child may be fitted with suitable spectacles.

A Good Reason.

"Does your wife begin complaining about your coming home late?"
"My wife never begins complaining about anything I do."
"You are fortunate."
"Not at all. She doesn't begin complaining because she's stopped."
—Baltimore American.

All the Same.

"Are you sure that he is crazy, doctor?"
"You are his wife. You ought to know."
"But I've been married twice before, and I thought he acted about the same as the others."—Life.

Unprepared.

Edith—Were you taken by surprise when he proposed, dear? Elsie—Goodness, yes! Why, I hadn't even looked up his financial standing. — Boston Transcript.

Falsehood.

No falsehood, did it rise heaven high and cover the world, but bankruptcy one day will sweep it down and make us free of it—Carlyle.

Property Sold.

Thomas J. Winebrenner has sold his property on Baltimore street, residence and store property, with the store, tinning and sheet metal business to Chester Lease of Orrtanna, who takes possession on Oct. 1, 1917. Mr. Winebrenner and family will remove to one of the Trostle houses near National Cemetery.

A Big Haul of Whiskey.

Since Hanover has been forbidden to the soldiers, Emmitsburg has been receiving more attention and there have been lively times in the 'burg across the line. As a sample James B. Aumen reported to the Gettysburg National Park Commission that on the night of Sept. 12 between hours of 10.45 and 2.30 sixty-one quarts of whiskey were taken from soldiers traveling in thirteen automobiles back to camp.

AUDITORS NOTICE.

The undersigned, duly appointed by the Orphan's Court of Adams county, auditor to dispose of exceptions and make distribution to the parties entitled to the balance as shown by the First and Final Account of Joseph Gochenour, executor of the last will and testament of John Gochenour, late of Latimore township, Adams county, Pa., deceased, hereby gives notice that he will sit in the performance of his duties at his office in Gettysburg, in the First National Bank Building, on October 19, 1917, at 10.30 o'clock A. M. All parties entitled, or claiming to be entitled, in the distribution, are notified to be present at that time and present their respective claims, either as creditors or legatees.

SUIT 2420

BECOMING TO EVERY FIGURE

Seldom indeed is a suit so cleverly designed for both slender and stout figures. There are soft, ripple pleats in front and back with a side panel set on from the hips and extending a little below the regular hem of the jacket. This clever feature gives long lines to the sides making a suit especially pleasing for large figures. The lines of the skirt follow those of the jacket with the same desirable features that make the suit so pleasing.

Fall and winter are welcome indeed when they bring such youthful, graceful suits and coats as these.

You have heard much of the new vogue for straight-line effects and it will delight you to see this fashion in its most charming expression—these advance Wooltex suits and coats for young women.

Remember, that first of all you are coming to see these garments because they are the wonderful new models just coming into style—but that is not all.

The Wooltex label on them stands for more than style.

It stands for the sort of tailoring and fabrics that cannot be matched in America.

And it is this Wooltex tailoring and these fabrics you need to keep your suit or coat fresh and smart even after months of steady service.

COAT 1535

Planned for motor and outing wear on fall and winter days, the collar of this coat is cleverly fashioned so as to cross in a new way when buttoned. Here is another Wooltex garment that will retain its good-looking features during long service, because of the thorough and careful workmanship put upon it in the making. Designed to give the straight lines of youth, there is a clever panel down the front arranged by plaits at each side. Two comfy pockets are concealed in the folds of the plaits.

Kuhn says also that Meade is going to be no picnic grounds for the public. He is going to put up the bars as high as possible, and if no outsider intrudes the general won't feel one bit slighted. In fact, he says that he has decided to make his camp equal in system to the camps at the front, with the same discipline, the same routine and the same obedience right at the start.

Training Worth While.

One who has been through the mill of army training speaks of it as being an almost superhuman task to whip recruits into shape so as to make them efficient fighters. The recruit coming from sedentary habits of civil life may be likened to one who has been confined to a sick bed for a long period. His muscles are flabby and undeveloped, he is flat-chested and deficient in lung power, he has poor co-ordination and at first glance appears hopeless. But he has latent possibilities and after six months' intensive training he has undergone such a metamorphosis that his own mother would hardly recognize him. He goes out of camp with his shoulders squared, his chest expanded and he has an elasticity of carriage that bespeaks power and self-reliance.

The methods employed at camp for bringing about this radical change are unique and are based upon sound physiological principles. No attempt is made to develop the recruit into an athlete, the aim being rather to train him for efficiency. The old system of training "has gone by the boards." Experience having taught us that the overtrained athlete with no reserve is the first to succumb when he is put up against some severe physical test. The "conditioning" of a recruit includes setting-up exercises, drills and hygienic living. All exercises are judiciously selected and performed in a regular sequence. That is, one set of muscles are exercised till they are tired, then another set, until all muscles have been exercised. Each muscle and set of muscles is exercised in accordance with its natural function, and all exercises are stopped short of fatigue. In this manner the recruit leaves the field with a sense of well-being and exhilaration, rather than one of fatigue. A few weeks of this kind of training performs wonders.

Supplementing this, instructions are given in the care of the body. Cold showers are obligatory in order to build up the individual's vital resistance and put him in a condition where he will be immune to colds and respiratory diseases. He knows his eliminative system as he never knew it before and sees to it that it works efficiently. He is taught to avoid dietetic errors and to "masticate" his food. With very few exceptions he does all these things willingly and beneficial results soon make themselves manifest. One year of intensive, scientific training along our present lines will place in the field one of the finest fighting machines that the world has ever seen.

Seminary Opens.

The Gettysburg Theological Seminary opened this week with an attendance of thirty-six students, an increase of two students over last year, and this notwithstanding a loss of five students who had not graduated, one by death, another married, and three entered the army. The institution is to be congratulated upon the good showing for the year.

Miss Bernice March of near town, has accepted a position as one of the stenographers to the vice president and general manager of the Elliott-Fisher Corporation of Harrisburg.

U. S. TROOPS FIELD MEET

GALA HALF HOLIDAY OF ATHLETIC EVENTS.

The Six Regimental Bands Made Music—Nixon Field Packed.

Wednesday afternoon was a half-holiday in Gettysburg and camp, the occasion being a great inter-regimental Track and Field Meet of the United States Troops, and in the order of events there were entries from the 4th, 7th, 58th, 60th and 61st Regiments, the Provisional Battalion, Camp Hospital, Field Bakery, and Q. M. Department. The soldier boys started for Nixon Field in formation without arms and accoutrements. It was the first time the entire six regiments have marched through the town, each led by its own Band, and it took nearly three-quarters of an hour for the procession to get itself inside of Nixon Field.

Nixon Field was fairly well packed. It might have held a few more, but it was a thrilling, animated scene to see the eight thousand or more soldiers gathered there with hundreds of civilians, by far the largest crowd ever gathered there. Capt. Robert Coker of the 60th, headed the list of officials in charge of the meet and they pulled off the list of events in great shape.

The merchants of Gettysburg furnished the prizes donated for the event, the prizes estimated to be worth several hundred dollars. Then prizes were on display before the meet in a window of the Blocher Jewelry Store. An elaborate program of 32 pages was prepared for the event by the Gettysburg Compiler press.

The events and awards of prizes were as follows:

Red Cross News.

The New Oxford branch of the Red Cross held a successful mass-meeting on Monday evening in Crystal Theatre in that place. There were addresses by Major Graham, professor of Military Science in Gettysburg College, and Lieut. Rev. Fr. Mark E. Stock. A number of Red Cross pictures from Belgium were shown and there was a good program of music, to which the talent of New Oxford contributed and soldiers from the camp here. An offering of $23.50 was taken up.

On Wednesday Rev. C. W. Baker, president of the New Oxford branch of the Red Cross, presented Lieut. Rev. Fr. Mark Stock, chaplain, and Lieut. Wm. R. Snyder and eight drafted men, four of whom were residents of New Oxford, with comfort kits made by the New Oxford branch. Rev. Walter E. Garrett made an address at the presentation ceremonies and a big crowd of relatives and friends bid farewell to the boys when they left for Gettysburg.

WEDDINGS.

brother, Francis Eckenrode, of Lit-tlestown. Immediately following the ceremony a breakfast was served at the home of the bride, after which the young couple left for Atlantic City. On their return a reception will be tendered at the home of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence will go to housekeeping in a newly furnished home in Mt. Rock.

Schuchart-Smith.—John A. Schuchart, of Conewago township, York county, and Miss Blanche B. Smith, of Union township, this county, were married at a nuptial mass in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Bonneauville, Tuesday, September 18, by Rev. J. B. Shanahan. The attendants were Nicholas Schuchart, brother of the groom, and Miss Marie Smith, sister of the bride. The young couple will make their home with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Smith, for the present, but will later go to farming.

Baker-Kane.—The marriage during the first week in August of Miss Ruth Kane, daughter of George Kane, and Harry Baker, son of J. J. Baker, is announced. The wedding was solemnized in St. Ignatius Church, Buchanan Valley, and by consent of all parties concerned, was kept a secret until the present time when it was announced much to the surprise of their many friends. After October first Mr. and Mrs. Baker will reside in Harrisburg.

Weaver-Baker.—At St. Ignatius Church, Buchanan Valley, on Tuesday evening, Rev. W. W. Whalen married Miss Ruth Baker of the Valley, and Charles Weaver of Philadelphia. Mr. Weaver is now employed at Mont Alto.

Keefe-Orndorff.—Oscar D. Keefe, son of Joseph Keefe, and Miss Emma Orndorff, daughter of Mrs. Emma Orndorff, of McSherrystown, were married by Rev. Dr. L. Aug. Reutter, in St. Mary's rectory, McSherrystown, Friday evening, Sept. 14. The groom was one of the popular pitchers of St. Mary's baseball team. He was in the selective draft and having passed the physical examination, left with Adams county's quota for Camp Meade, on Thursday.

Peters—Stable.—Miss Bertha Stable, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Stable of Gettysburg, and Roy D. Peters, son of Mrs. A. Peters, of Utica, N. Y., were married last Saturday in Frederick at the Lutheran parsonage by Rev. Ulysses Rupp. Mr. Peters is a first class musician in the 60th United States Infantry Band. Mr. and Mrs. Peters will make their home with the bride's parents, on East Railroad street.

Swain-Tate.—Harry C. Swain, a soldier stationed at Gettysburg, and Miss Burnell Tate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Tate, of West High street, motored to Frederick and were married by Rev. John A. Ditzler of the Reformed Church Thursday of last week. They will reside in Gettysburg for the present.

Stokes-Herbst.—Frank Stokes, a sergeant in Co. M, 4th Infantry, and Miss Mary Herbst, daughter of Frank Herbst of East Middle street, motored to Frederick last Saturday where they were married.

Davies—Hawkey.—Miss Maude Hawkey of Bethlehem, and Thomas Davies of Cataqua, bugler in Co. K, 61st Infantry, were married Saturday evening by Squire Appler at his office on Baltimore street.

Simpson-May.—Thursday evening at the Presbyterian Manse, Sergeant Joseph Simpson, a soldier in the camp, and Miss Mabel May, of Phillipsburg, were married by Rev. F. E. Taylor.

Conway-Riggs.—Robert H. Conway of Portland, Maine, and Miss Irene Riggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Riggs, South Washington street, were married at the Methodist parsonage Friday evening by Dr. R. S. Oyler. They will reside in Gettysburg for the present.

Hertzenberg-Eldred.—On Thursday evening Miss Pauline A. Eldred of Steinwehr avenue, daughter of Lee Eldred, and Sergeant Harry Hertzenberger, a soldier in the Gettysburg camp, were married at the Presbyterian Manse by Rev. F. E. Taylor.

Stonesifer—Shelton.—Walter H. Stonesifer and Miss Carrie I. Shelton, both of Hanover, were married at St. James Lutheran parsonage, Gettysburg, by Rev. J. B. Baker. They will reside in Hanover.

Eyttinge-Delworth.—Dr. and Mrs. E. Grant Delworth announce the marriage of their daughter, Dorothy Tucker Delworth, to Bruce S. Eyttinge, on Wednesday, at their home, Bedford Park, New York City. Bruce Swamley Eyttinge is a son of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Swamley of New Oxford. The young man is now stationed at a flying school in Toronto and expects to be commissioned an aviator. For some years Mr. Eyttinge has been located in New York. He is the inventor of the motor roller skates, with which he recently appeared on the Keith vaudeville circuit.

Saunders—Thorn.—Miss Esther Thorn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thorn, of Chambersburg street, and Supply Sergeant Harry M. Saunders, of Co. H, 58th Infantry, were married in Harrisburg on Monday by Rev. J. A. Lyter. They will reside at the home of the bride's parents for the present.

Starr-Orndorff.—At the home of the bride at noon Saturday, Dr. Chas. F. Sanders, of Broadway, married Miss Olivia Orndorff and Henry E. Starr, both of Millersburg. Mr. Starr was valedictorian of the graduating class at Gettysburg College last June, and has accepted a position in the Chemistry Department of the University of Pennsylvania, as assistant to Dr. Marshall.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Straley of New Oxford, announce the engagement of their daughter, Beulah Oretta Straley to J. Howard Reinecker of Altoona. Mr. Reinecker, a graduate of Gettysburg College in class of 1916, is now employed in the chemical laboratory of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company at Altoona. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Reinecker, of Gettysburg.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. George S. Shimer of Milton, Pa., for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Florence Elizabeth Shimer, and Raymond Worth Krise, on Thursday, October fourth at seven o'clock in the First Presbyterian Church of Milton. Mr. Krise is well known here, being a nephew of the Misses Krise of Carlisle street, at whose home he has been a frequent visitor. Mr. Krise is the only son of the late Columbus Worth Krise, a native of this county, who was a practicing physician in Carlisle for many years.

New Health Board.

The new Board of Health of Gettysburg organized this week by electing Dr. Walter H. O'Neal president, and D. B. Snyder secretary, and Andrew Utz health officer.

The new board was named by President of Council C. B. Dougherty and their names sent to the Commissioner of Health Dixon, who replied that he did not appoint or dismiss members of local boards and the State could not recognize a newly appointed board while another board is yet lawfully in existence for the same borough. He stated that the particular action of the State Board of Health having assumed administration of health laws has no reference to the personnel of the Board.

The situation of having an old Board of Health lawfully in existence was sought to be determined by dismissing the old Board by following letter placed on minutes of the Town Council:

Secretary Town Council
Sir:—In order to remove any doubts as to the present status of the Board of Health in this borough and to facilitate the return of such matters to local direction, I have this day removed from office the members of the said Board of Health, with the exception of F. M. Bream, who resigned, and I hereby appoint new members, with their expiration of office as follows:

George P. Black, to expire on October 7th, 1917.

J. L. Butt, Esq., to expire October 7th, 1918.

Dr. Walter H. O'Neal, to expire October 7th, 1919.

John D. Lippy, to expire October 7th, 1920.

D. B. Snyder, to expire October 7th, 1921.

You will kindly record this action in the minutes of the Town Council, and notify the members of the former Board as to their being removed and the members of the new Board as to their being appointed and request them to meet and organize according to law.

Respectfully,
C. B. DOUGHERTY,
President of Town Council.
The State has not yet indicated its purposes, whether or not it proposed to recognize the new Board.

—James Bouey of Emmitsburg, was a business visitor in Gettysburg on Thursday.

L. L. Lerew of Latimore had a narrow escape Tuesday morning from probably fatal injuries when he plunged headlong down into a forty-five foot shaft which had recently been dug in the timberland on the Samuel Fair farm. He was helping to place a spring pole in position to drive the shaft deeper in order to secure water for the saw mill, when the pole accidentally released. His feet were caught in a rope and he was thrown headforemost over the hole. Fortunately the rope held him suspended until the men could release him.

Thieves gained entrance to the Rotering produce building in Emmitsburg on Wednesday night and stole 17 crates of eggs valued at $250. They carried their loot away in an automobile, but certain clues were found which will likely lead to arrests. About a year ago the Rotering place and the nearby store of Joseph Hoke were robbed in much the same manner.

An order for 90 safes to be manufactured within 30 days for the Medical Department of the U. S. War Department has been received by the York Safe & Lock Co. They will be sent to soldier camps all over the country. The most unusual feature about the order is that the safes are to be sent by express.

Among a number of young women who participated in the profession.

or investing of the Black Veil services at the convent of the Sisters of Mercy at Harrisburg on Tuesday, were Sister Regit, formerly Miss Laura Brashshears, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Brashshears, and Sister Isabel, formerly Miss Catharine Sterner, daughter of Harry J. Sterner, all of New Oxford.

After assisting at threshing all day on Tuesday, without feeling any ill effects, Meryl Sanders, who lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Sanders, on the Livingston farm near Swift Run school house, suddenly became unconscious during the evening and remained in that condition all night. When he regained consciousness he was unable to remember anything that had occurred several days previous. He suffered severe pains all over his body and it is thought the trouble was due to the heat in connection with the dust from the threshing.

While driving his machine at a rapid speed in an effort to pass a car, Frank Metz of York, collided with a hitching post in front of the residence of Calvin Eckert at Mt. Pleasant, Conewago township, on Monday. The Metz car turned turtle and three of the five occupants were injured. The injured are Earl A. Yeats, cuts about the head and back with possible internal injuries; Frank Metz, badly bruised and lacerated; Mrs. Metz received a broken ankle.

Steel Ships.
 Steel ships differ from those of wood in that their hulls are made of steel plates riveted together instead of the old method of using wooden planking. They are enabled to float because, being hollow, they have what is called buoyancy. A steel ship displaces a volume of water equal in weight to its own. The principle of buoyancy may be tested by floating an iron pail in a bathtub full of water.

Sense of Security.

 "No," replied Senator Sorghum. "But that doesn't cause me any apprehension. If they refuse to be guided, there is plenty of time for me to come around and agree with them."—Washington Star.

Hang Up the Broom.
 Brooms should always hang when not in use. Have a hole bored through the handle four inches from the end and large enough to slip over an ordinary nail. When left on the floor a broom soon loses its shape and will not do good work.

What De Morgan Might Have Done.
 If I am ever privileged to meet Mr. De Morgan in some afterworld of shades where even a critic may look at a creator and find forgiveness for his own sins I shall want to say: "Dear and honored sir, there is one thing for which some of us are not going to forgive you. You were one of the very greatest and most delightful of our entertainers and in these latter days perhaps the best heartening of all, for while others chose to rant or fume or doubt or vilify you chose only to give us pleasure unminged with pain. But why, with all your wit and all your wisdom, with all your command over the very founts of laughter and of tears—why, when you were the only man in the world who could justly have dreamed of such a labor of love, did you not finish what your great elder brothers had begun? Why did you not give us the missing chapters of 'Dennis Duval' and 'The Mystery of Edwin Drood'?"—Wilson Follett in Yale Review.

The Unhanged Ludlites.
 It was a curious slip that saved the old time machine wrecking Ludlites. These men were indicted for threatening to demolish a certain plant at Nottingham, and conviction meant the scaffold—there was no alternative. Death for all the offenders seemed inevitably predestined. But old Father Antic, the law, came with benevolent guile to their aid. The threatened ruin was described in the indictment as "proprietors of a silk and cotton manufactory." The acute mind of the future Lord Chief Justice Freeman seized on a flaw. "The firm are in reality," he urged, "manufacturers of silk lace and of cotton lace." Note the fine distinction. "They ought to have been described as 'proprietors of a silk lace and of a cotton lace manufactory,'" he said. A merciful judge, more so licitous for lives than law, upheld the objection, and those Ludlites died unhanged.—London Chronicle.

The Unexpected Happens.
 Remember, don't you, what Bob Burdette, the humorist, said about that military fop he laughed at on one occasion?
 Clean, well pressed uniform, gloved hands, flowing cravat, polished boots. This young cavalry officer was directing the unloading of a cargo of army supplies.
 I heard Burdette say he thought it a crime to intrust his own life to the leadership of such a handbox soldier. But a little later, when the Confederate horsemen appeared, this Union dandy electrified his own men as, mounted upon a fine steed and with flashing sword, he led the charge.
 It was George A. Custer!
 We have biblical authority for this: "Judge not according to the appearance."—Girard in Philadelphia Ledger.

Our Soldiers of the Sea.
 The American marine is known round the world. A better set up, more fit, more spirited, more energetic and stancher soldier is to be found nowhere. He is the first ashore, where he always knows how to take care of himself, and the last to stay at the fight as well as the first in, always brave, always cheerful, always dextrous and ever steady. There are a brighter, cleaner, readier soldiers than these.

have got to live up to the traditions of more than a century, and they never fail to do it. A civilian who can't get enthusiastic about the marine corps—but it isn't necessary to finish. There is the glorious record of the fine old organization, and with every opportunity for distinction it glows and brightens.—New York Sun.

History of "Stepmother."
 "Stepmother" is a word with a commonly unsuspected history. Probably most people if called upon to explain it would say that it meant a woman who had stepped into the place of the true mother. Dr. Johnson, at any rate believed that this was the suggestion of the word to most minds. Really "step" is the Anglo-Saxon "steop," the original meaning of which appears to have been "orphaned." Stepchild, step-brother, stepson and step daughter come first, and then by gradual fading of the etymological meaning of "step" stepfather and stepmother came into being.—London Opinion.

Our Friends the Birds.
 Birds are the friends of mankind. Were it not for their kindly offices, so ill requited, man could not live upon the earth more than a year or two. Insect life would sweep over the earth in a devastating flood. Every green thing would disappear as insects great and small, flying, creeping, swimming, boring and omnivorous, swept over the land. The birds, and the birds alone, are our guardians and keepers, and yet we make senseless war upon them. Because a few birds that guard our peas and cherries take tribute of the fruit they preserve we make senseless war upon them until by sad experience we are taught that it is a choice between plenty of birds and fewer cherries, and without the birds no cherries at all. The hawks and owls rid us of pestiferous vermin and now and then take a chicken for tribute. Therefore we make war upon hawks and owls, and by and by we have no clover, because the mice have eaten the eggs of the bumblebee, and so the clover is not fertilized.—Christian Register.

The Phantom Pool.
 The Ozark mountains, which divide Arkansas from Missouri, are wonderfully picturesque, and one of their features, which has come to be known as "The Phantom Pool," is quite a curiosity. Adventurous visitors have been bringing back from time to time the story of the mysterious deception it practices upon the human vision, but there are always skeptics. Recently a party of Nebraskans set out for the place with the purpose of removing all doubt.
 The rains had been very heavy and streams and ponds in the mountains were everywhere overflowing their banks. All conditions were favorable to upsetting the claim that the pool was always empty. The members of the group were overjoyed upon looking down from an eminence to find that the pool appeared to be full to the brim. Coming to its edge, however, they found it empty. And now they are encountering skepticism themselves.—Christian Science Monitor.

Peter the Great and Lawyers.
 In Russia during the reign of Peter the Great private litigants might have their suits prosecuted free of cost by lawyers paid by the state. The emperor, discovering that his subjects were being imposed upon by their legal agents, who contrived to delay trials until they had sucked their clients dry, enacted that sufficient solicitors and attorneys should be employed at handsome yearly salaries to officiate for the public in every matter of law. He ordered further that these men should insert in a register written up daily the dates of applications to them and should proceed with the suits in the order in which they were received without respect of persons. If they failed to do so, if they accepted any bribe or fee or if they were dilatory these lawyers were to be knouted and sent to Siberia.

Buying Furniture.
 If you are going to put a lot of money into a piece of furniture—and please remember that the important pieces can never, if really good, be cheap—make sure it is right before it is too late. Be sure that it is the kind of a piece that you will not only want to live with the rest of your life, but that you will love the more as time goes on, for that is what invariably happens if a chair or a table is built in the right way, on the right lines, of the right things. And such are the investments which we never regret.
 Especially must one be ever watchful in the buying of upholstered furniture lest a piece which looks good be suspiciously cheap, too cheap to warrant its being as good in its unseen parts as it appears on the surface.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Keeping Up the Tone.
 "The neat and even elegant appearance of the American soldier isn't maintained," said the secretary of war, "without hard work. Yes, the work is hard, but doesn't the result more than justify it?"
 "On a train the other day a private sat with his tunic unbuttoned, for the temperature was high. A sergeant strode up to him and said: 'Button up that tunic! Did you never hear of bylaw 217, subsection D? I'm Sergeant Jabez Winterbottom!'"
 "A gentleman in the seat behind tapped the sergeant sternly on the shoulder.
 "How dare you issue orders," he said, "with a pipe in your mouth? Go home and read paragraph 174, section M, part 9. I am Major Eustace Carroll!"
 "Here a gentleman with a drooping white mustache interposed from the other side of the aisle.
 "'If Major Carroll,' he said coldly, 'will consult bylaw 31 of section K he will learn that to reprimand a sergeant in the presence of a private is an offense not lightly to be overlooked.'"
 —Washington Star.

Big Turkey Ranches.
 Exclusive turkey ranches are found in the unsettled foothill regions of California and in parts of Arizona and other western states where 1,000 or more turkeys are raised each season. The establishments are located where the range is unlimited and the natural food of the turkey, such as grasshoppers and other insects, green vegetables and the seeds of various weeds and grasses, is abundant. Advantage also is taken on these ranches of the turkey's relish for acorns, and where these are plentiful but little grain need be used for fattening in the fall. The large flocks of turkeys are managed much like herds of sheep, being taken out to the range early in the morning and brought home to roost at night. They are herded during the day by men either on foot or on horseback and by dogs especially trained for the work.—Indianapolis News.

Her Great Comfort.
 Donald and Charlie, two boys of eleven, went for a hike the other day, and when the noon luncheon hour arrived failed to appear after an absence of two hours, causing Donald's mother to become worried, fearing an accident had happened to the boy, who is always prompt at meal times, even if not on other occasions. But the father ate his luncheon calmly, being wise to the ways and wanderings of boys of eleven, and unworriedly started for his office at 1 o'clock, when the wife remarked to him, her brows furrowed with care, "What shall I do if Donald doesn't come?"
 "I'll tell you what you do," said her consort. "Now, if that boy doesn't get back in an hour from now you call me up at the office, and I'll tell you not to worry."—Indianapolis News.

Animal Curiosity.
 A cow will approach a new object fascinated, but with timorous suspicion, and a horse is even more timid, gazing at a distance for awhile, ready to flee in a moment. The monkey will snatch at everything that is new and deliberately examine it till, finding that he cannot eat it or mock mankind with it, he will drop it and let it pass from his shallow memory. There is a pathos in the slenderness of animal curiosity, it is so easily satisfied. The thought, if thought it be, usually ends with the first flush of surprise and the impression of safety.

Poise and Power.
 The man of poise is the man of power. He has taken time to find himself. He knows his abilities and limitations. He knows when he is encroaching too far on his reserve vitality, and he has will power enough to stop—yes, quit—when he has gone the limit. As you cultivate poise you generate power. It is the silent yet powerful dynamo that gives momentum to your life and work.—Edward S. Babcock.

Epilepsy.
 The word mania is used twice in the New Testament (Matthew vi, 24, and xvii, 15). The word evidently refers to some disease affecting mind and body. By the description given in Mark ix, 17-26, it is concluded the disease is epilepsy.

Selecting an Audience.
 "Bliggins says he is fond of children."
 "He is. He can impose on children and make them think he is a great and wonderful man."—Washington Star.

All In the View.
 Wife—You're spending too much money foolishly on tobacco. Hubby—What's the trouble? Do you want a new dress?—Pittsburgh Press.

Man is the only animal that blushes, or needs to.—Mark Twain.

A War Quartet

—Story of an Ambulance Driver—

By F. A. MITCHEL

When the great world's war broke out Jim Harding and I were in Paris. Jim and I had long been chums, and what one did the other usually did. We had finished our education in the same class, in the same college, and before settling down to our life work concluded to make a tour abroad. After dawdling about on the continent for a part of the summer we went to Paris, intending to sail from England after "doing" the French capital. Before we got away war was declared.

We thought we should like to see some of the controversy before returning home and deliberated between joining the Foreign Legion and the ambulance corps. We were both good chauffeurs and offered our services to drive the wounded. They were accepted, and Jim and I were assigned to the same field.

When the French army and English contingent were hurled back on Paris I was driving an empty ambulance to the front. Who should I come upon on the way but Jim. He had lost his ambulance in the quick advance of the Germans and barely escaped being taken prisoner. He climbed on to the seat beside me, and we proceeded to gather. Somehow—I never could tell how we did it—we drove between two divisions of the German army and found ourselves in its rear.

If our position had not been serious it would have been laughable. Here were two men and an ambulance equipped for carrying wounded men off the field of battle who had left the wounded far behind them. Indeed, if the Germans had not also been left behind we would have been made prisoners of war and our ambulance put to the enemy's uses. Under the circumstances we were not very long in deciding what to do.

Leaving our ambulance, we took to hiding. At evening we came upon a village that had been destroyed by the Germans and slept in one of the few houses left standing. It was nothing more than a hut, and in it what clothing we found had belonged to peasants. We decided to don enough of it to enable us to pass as members of the peasant class, and when we emerged in the morning we were clad in corduroy trousers and blouses.

In order to get back to our comrades and avoid being taken prisoners by those following up the German army we struck off in a southwesterly direction. During the day we entered a region that was very beautiful. I remarked to Jim that if I were an artist I should not wish any better field for sketching. There were beautiful hills on either side of a dreamy valley, to say nothing of a winding stream meandering between them.

Meeting two peasant girls coming toward us, Jim suggested that we might safely ask them for information that would guide us on our way. So when we came to a fork I asked one of them what we desired to know. Unfortunately for us they knew very little about the roads or the topography of the country about them. I spoke French pretty well, and Jim knew enough of the language to get on in a simple conversation. It did not seem to me that the girls spoke very good French, but I attributed this to the fact that they were of the lower class.

After satisfying ourselves that we ran no risk in disclosing our identity I told the girls that we were Americans; had been tourists, had joined the French ambulance corps and were trying to escape capture. I noticed that upon this information they looked at each other and smiled. Then they both commended us for our patriotism and offered to help us in every way in their power.

After a brief conference it was decided that we should remain where we were and the girls would bring us something to eat, for we had not had food for twenty-four hours. Jim and I settled ourselves in a grove beside the road, and in due time our benefactors returned with a luncheon that surprised us. We had expected such a meal as would come from a peasant's home, but found cold chicken, slices of ham, white bread and delicious butter. Moreover, the whole was on a silver covered with a napkin.

But we were too hungry to wonder how such a meal could have been produced by peasants or even inquire into the matter and fell to at once, the girls watching us with evident interest and filling a couple of glasses they had provided from a bottle of excellent wine. It occurred to me that they were some mystery about them. Their hands were not coarse and misshapen like those of the lower class, but soft and round; their voices had not a nasal sound; their feet, which, we noticed, were plainly visible beneath their short skirts, were not like those of a peasant, but long and narrow as befitting a lady.

After satisfying our hunger we talked with our benefactors, who seemed to inquire as to the road we would need to take to get back to our army and they would return in the early afternoon, and we betook ourselves to slumber, which we said, needed and which was induced by the coffee and wine we had eaten.

Our friends returned in the evening with more eatables, but with no information which would enable us to reach our corps. They told us that they had learned the Germans were rapidly driving the allies toward Paris and it was expected that the city would fall into the hands of the enemy. Indeed, the capital had already been removed to Bordeaux.

This did not look like our making our way toward our comrades, who were doubtless retreating faster than we could travel. We concluded that we might as well remain where we were till we could get some definite information, for there would be no advantage in making for a point that was always changing. That night we slept in a barn we espied near our bivouac, finding a comfortable bed on the hay. Not caring to rely further on our friends the girls for provisions, we went in the morning to the house of the farmer who owned the barn and secured a breakfast such as might have been expected from such a source.

We induced the farmer to take us in and remained with him for sleep and meals from day to day while news kept coming to us that the Germans were nearing Paris. We felt like shirkers in being absent from our posts, where we were so much needed, but what could we do? Evidently our way to Paris was blocked, and if we tried to get there we would likely fall into the enemy's hands.

We were perfectly safe where we were, but dissatisfied at remaining there. Jim proposed that we make an attempt to get through the German lines, but I believed that we would soon hear either that the Germans had taken Paris or had settled down before it for a siege. In either case we would know what to do. Meanwhile to pass the time we took long walks about the country.

One day we came to the brow of a hill looking down on a very attractive landscape.

"That would make a fine subject for a picture," I said to Jim.

"And there are the artists making it," replied Jim.

Lowering my eyes to a point directly beneath where we were standing, I saw two women, one before an easel, the other with a sketching board before her. I proposed to go down and see what they were doing, and we did so. Hearing us approach they turned their heads, and we recognized our peasant girl-benefactors. We saw them look at each other and laugh.

"I was not aware," I said, still speaking in French, "that peasants were artists."

"You have caught us in the act," said one of the girls, "and we may as well confess. We are not indigenous to France any more than you are, nor are we peasants. We are Americans studying art. We spent the winter in Paris, and when summer opened we came to this region, which is famous among artists, to get practical out of door experience in our profession. To avoid being stared at or questioned we donned this dress and find it a serviceable outing costume. But were we not lucky in getting out of Paris before the war storm broke?"

"I think," replied Jim, "that your position was kept up as long as it would be possible to maintain it. My friend and I have suspected you were not what you purported to be. The luncheon you brought us was a dead giveaway. You should have brought us coarse bread and some cold pork on a tin dish."

"You should have done no such thing," I protested. "That luncheon was delicious. I shall always remember it, especially when I am hungry."

This is rather the beginning of a story than the story itself. Jim and I remained where we were till news came of the battle of the Marne and the saving of Paris. Then we bade our artist friends goodbye and made our way back to the capital, from which point we were enabled to join our corps and found ourselves again engaged in rescuing the wounded.

Jim and I were both engaged in the fighting that followed the battle of the Marne, the effort to take Calais and subsequently the gigantic attempt of the central allies to capture Verdun. So active were we that we had no time to think of the girls who had brought us that delicious supper. Nevertheless, when temporarily off duty and together, we would speak of them and the way they had concealed from us their identity. We wondered what they were doing, but had little doubt they were still studying art—that is, if they had not returned to America.

A year passed, when one day while I was driving my ambulance I was wounded by a piece of shrapnel. I was carried to the rear. Jim found me and took me to a hospital farther from the firing line. In a nurse passing my cot I recognized one of the peasant artists I had met during the summer before. She had not forgotten me and showed great concern at seeing me in my former condition.

I received special attention from the lady, and it was, I think, due to her nursing that I recovered. Patients are prone to fall in love with their nurses, and I was no exception to the rule. Her artist friend had also enlisted in the cause and was at the same hospital. When Jim came to see me he found both girls, and one day there was a reunion of our quartet beside my cot.

We talked over our meeting a year before and laughed at some of the girls' experiences in preserving their identity. All agreed that studying art and "concealing" ourselves in the enemy zone was far from an attractive work than aiding the wounded men.

High Collars in Quito. In an article on "Quito, the City of the Equator," Harry A. Franck describes in the "Century" some of the difficulties he encountered when shopping in South America.

"The line of demarcation between the gente decente and the gente del pueblo of Quito is the white collar. Naturally the tendency is to make it as wide and distinct as possible. When I had searched the entire city I found my customary brand of collar at four times its American price, but the lowest collar in stock was weirdly suggestive of some species of human giraffe.

"You misunderstood me," I protested. "I did not ask for a cuff, but for a collar."

"But this is a collar, señor!" cried the shopkeeper.

"Something lower, please."

"But this is a very low collar. It is so low that no one in Quito will wear it, and we are not importing any more of this brand."

Freedom.

Great is the moment when tidings of freedom reach us, when the long enthralled soul from amid its chains and squalid stagnancy arises, were it still only in blindness and bewilderment, and swears by him that made it that it will be free. Free? Understand that well, it is the deep commandment, dimmer or clearer, of our whole being to be free. Freedom is the one purpose, wisely aimed at or unwisely, of all man's struggles, toilings and sufferings in this earth. Yes, supreme is such a moment (if thou have known it); first vision as of a flame girl Sinai in this our waste pilgrimage, which thenceforth wants not its pillar of cloud by day and pillar of fire by night. Something it is even—may, something considerable—when the chains have grown corrosive, poisonous, to be free from oppression by our fellow man.—Carlyle.

Rhubarb Leaves.

More than one case is on record where leaves of the rhubarb plant produced fatal results when served as "greens." A survey of all the available data indicates that while the stalks of the common garden rhubarb furnish a perfectly safe article of food for most persons, the leaves of the same plant may not prudently be employed for culinary purposes. Rhubarb wine, which was once extensively used in adulterating champagne, is made from the stalks, yet Dr. William Prout, an eminent physician and chemist who died in 1850, thought it was so potent an agency in producing stone in the bladder that he wanted parliament to prohibit its manufacture.

The safe course in regard to rhubarb appears to be this: Stick to the stalks, but let the leaves alone.—New York Sun.

An Eye Opener.

Always have a glass medicine dropper and a bottle of rosewater in the medicine chest and in your traveling bag. Then when you get a foreign body in your eye you will be spared much pain and discomfort if the following very simple and harmless method is pursued: Put into the medicine dropper six drops of the rosewater. Pull down the lower lid and float the liquid on the surface of the injured eye. After the rosewater has been in the eye for a few seconds use the empty medicine dropper to suck out the liquid, and the foreign matter will come with it.

Poor Place for a Will.

"I was reading in the paper," said the fat plumber, "about a man who had his will tattooed on his back."

"Gee," the thin carpenter exclaimed, "I'd hate to have my will on my back."

"Because many a will is broken by the courts,"—Youngstown Telegram.

Too Radiant.

Edith—Fred and I have agreed to keep our engagement secret. Her Friend—Impossible, dear. All the girls will know it as soon as they look at you.—Boston Transcript.

The Word "Yacht."

The word "yacht" is Dutch, from "jagten," to hunt, to speed, connected with our "go."

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Fainting.
First aid treatment for fainting should consist in getting the patient into an open air space as quickly as possible, lowering the head if the face be pale and raising it if it be congested. At the same time the clothing must be loosened from the neck to the waist. It is absolutely necessary that a free circulation of air be had, so if there is none stirring vigorous fanning helps considerably. If the patient is unconscious give nothing by the mouth, but if she is conscious the sooner fluids are given the better. Cold water in sips, cold tea, hot coffee, cold milk and warm beef tea are all useful, but some stronger and more quickly acting stimulant may be necessary. Ammonia in the form of sal volatile is the stimulant usually supplied in ambulance hamper. A dose of from five to thirty drops of this salt in two tablespoonfuls of water is generally effective, but a great objection to its use is that it sometimes causes vomiting, which is especially undesirable in one who is already weak and exhausted.

Country Children.
Alice Freeman Palmer, the far famed president of Wellesley college, grew up as a farmer's daughter. In after years it is said that she was always sorry for children who do not grow up with the sights and sounds of the country. "One is very near to all the simple, real things of life on a farm," she used to say. "There is a dewy freshness about the early out of door experiences and a warm wholesomeness about tasks that are a part of the common lot. A country child develops, too, a responsibility—a power to do and to contrive—that the city child, who sees everything come ready to hand from a nearby store, cannot possibly gain. However much some of my friends may deplore my own early struggle with poverty and hard work, I can heartily echo George Eliot's boast: But were another childhood world my share, I would be born a little sister there."

—St. Nicholas.

Origin of Chalk.

Deposits of chalk are found on some shores of the sea. A piece of chalk, such as the teacher uses to illustrate something on the blackboard at school, consists of the remains of thousands of tiny creatures that at one time lived in the sea. All of their bodies excepting the chalk—called carbonate of lime in scientific language—has disappeared, and the chalk that was left was piled up where it fell at the bottom of the ocean, each particle pressing against the other with the water pressing over it all, until it became almost solid. It took thousands of years to make these chalk deposits of the thickness in which they are found, says the "Book of Wonders." Later on, through changes in the earth's surface, the mountain of chalk was raised until it stood out of the water and thus became accessible to mankind, including schoolteachers.

Guinea Pigs as Food.

The cavy (guinea pig) is typically a pet animal and has no other excuse for existence than the pleasure he gives those who appreciate his good qualities. But it is to the undeniable edibility of the cavy that we owe the existence of the cheerful little squeaker of today.

The Incas of Peru long ago domesticated the wild ancestor of the modern animal—a small, tailless, unicolor member of the genus Cavia, the exact identity of which is a matter of some doubt. These creatures were allowed to run freely about the home of their owners, whose object in breeding them undoubtedly was for their food value.

The time which must undoubtedly have elapsed since this domestication was first begun is evident from the entirely changed color of the present day cavy.—"Pets," by Lee S. Crandall.

Encourage the Workers.

If you have people working for you one way to encourage them to do more and better work is occasionally to pick out instances where they have shown signs of ability and commend them. Any worker, particularly a young worker, is likely to be unable to discriminate always between his good work and his poor work. If you are his boss it is up to you to help him distinguish between the two. It is also up to you to take the young man in hand and explain to him why the good job is good and why the poor job is poor. In the first instance he will be hearing something pleasant and inspiring, and in the second instance he will be in a better mood to listen to you. You can also depend upon it that the man who is intelligently praised for a good piece of work will try to duplicate that work, so that he may earn more praise.—American Magazine.

Sneezing in Persia.

The well known superstition that to sneeze once is a bad omen seriously interferes with many of the duties and pleasures of the Persian. When he is so unfortunate as to sneeze once he quickly says, "Sehar amad" (a time for waiting has come), and for at least two hours thereafter he cannot be persuaded to take medicine, start on a journey or begin any new or important work. A missionary surgeon who has more than once had to postpone an operation because he or the patient sneezed once says, "I have now become an adept at producing double sneezes."—Los Angeles Times.

A Beginning.

Two college freshmen of the male persuasion were looking at a counter of magazines which had the usual pretty girl covers.

"There's a rather good one," remarked one.

His companion cast an appraising eye upon the golden haired, blue eyed little thing on the cover.

"Yes," he drawled, "but she has an incipient face."—New York Post.

Value Trebled.

Stockton—You say your mining stocks are worth three times what they were when you bought them? That's astonishing. How do you account for it? Bonds—Waste paper has trebled in value since I made the purchase.—Exchange.

Spiteful.

She—What do you suppose Harold meant by sending me those flowers? Also She—He probably meant to imply that you were a dead one.—Jack o' Lantern.

Self Reminder.

Click—Is that movie actor absent minded? Click—In a war, but he never forgets himself.—Film Fun.

Dishonesty is a forsaking of permanent for temporary advantage.—Bovee

Three farm institutes will be held in Adams county this coming winter according to announcement made by the State Department of Agriculture. The first will be at New Oxford on January 1st, the next at Hunterstown on January 2nd and 3rd, and the last at Arendtsville January 4th and 5th.

Experience the Best Teacher.

It is generally admitted that experience is the best teacher, but should we not make use of the experience of others as well as our own? The experience of a thousand persons is more to be depended upon than that of one individual. Many thousands of persons have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs and colds with the best results, which shows it to be a thoroughly reliable preparation for those diseases. Try it. It is prompt and effectual and pleasant to take.

Prof. Robt. S. Myers, Ridgewood, N. Y., son of the late Dr. Alfred Myers, at one time a resident of Hampton, was recently re-elected principal of the Kenelworth School in Ridgewood at a salary of $1825.

Great Faith in Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy was used by my father about a year ago when he had diarrhoea. It relieved him immediately and by taking three doses he was absolutely cured. He has great faith in this remedy," writes Mrs. W. H. Williams, Stanley, N. Y.

The real estate of the late Cicero Haar of Latimore township, was sold last Saturday. J. R. Lischy of York Springs, purchased farm No. 1, containing 75 acres for $197. Farm No. 2 of 48 acres was purchased by Paul Haar for $1440. Farm No. 3, of 80 acres, was purchased by Harry Haar for $1900.

Best Treatment for a Burn.

If for no other reason, Chamberlain's Salve should be kept in every household on account of its great value in the treatment of burns. It allays the pain almost instantly, and unless the injury is a severe one, heals the parts without leaving a scar. This salve is also unequalled for chapped hands, sore nipples and discoloration of the skin. Price 25 cents. For sale by The People's Drug Store.

Geo. Walkman has sold his 107 acre farm in Straban township to Mrs. Maggie Shanabrook of the same place.

PUBLIC SALE OF VALUABLE REAL ESTATE

On Saturday October 20, 1917.

The undersigned being all the heirs-at-law of Mary E. Bream, deceased, late of Cashtown, Franklin township, Adams county, Pa., will sell the following described real estate at public sale:

A FRUIT FARM situated in Cashtown, Franklin township, Adams Co., Pa., adjoining lands of Geo. Schwartz, Mark Pepple, Cashtown Water Co., and the Lincoln Highway, containing 80 acres and 94 perches, improved with a two-story frame house 18 x 32, back building attached 14 x 16; this is a new house only built in 1908, containing 7 rooms and a bath room, water all through the house, a large lawn facing and adjoining the Lincoln Highway. This is a beautiful home.

Large bank barn, frame, 45 x 80, with wagon shed attached; also a separate wagon shed 28 x 40 ft., machine shed, chicken house, hog pens and other outbuildings. This farm has an apple orchard of 800 bearing trees from 13 to 25 years old. York Imperial and Jonathan are the leading varieties. In 1915 we sold 1800 barrels No. 1 apples. In 1916 we sold 1600 barrels No. 1, and we expect this year 2000 barrels, with about 600 barrels Jonathan. This is one of the finest apple orchards in Adams county. It has never missed a crop since it has been bearing. Also other fruit, peach, pear, plum and cherry. This farm has a stream of water running through two meadows, also has several never failing springs; water is pumped to the barn. This farm lies along the Lincoln Highway and is known as Rock Top Farm; the buildings are all in first class condition, any one wishing to view the farm can do so at any time. Sale to begin at 1 o'clock on the premises when attendance will be given and terms made known by

THE HEIRS OF

Great Hagerstown Interstate Fair.

Patriotism charges the atmosphere! We are at war with a mighty nation to-day, and every true-hearted American, be he of whatever lineage, star's ready to do his bit to save our beloved land from the ravages of a jealous, envious foe.

The spirit of war and patriotism has impregnated the big FAIR of 1917, making its presence known in a hundred ways. It will be a cheering, loyal crowd that will gather within our gates on those four days—a gathering of Americans who will mingle in joy and understanding such as has never been felt before.

Let us take this time to urge upon you the necessity of devotion to America, the need of conservation, the demand of upright dealing with your neighbor, to the end that we may all fight together in one way or another to win this great fight for freedom and democratization of the entire world.

COME TO THE FAIR PREPARED TO LEARN HOW TO "DO YOUR BIT," Oct. 9, 10, 11 and 12.

Where Thousands See It Daily

The Bell directory is the most used book in town—it's the book to which you turn when there's a telephone call to make or an address to look up or a name or initials to verify. The Index of Advertisers is a means for locating the man who offers for sale what you want to buy when you want to buy it—perhaps a man you've never heard of.

And how about YOUR goods or services? Are they advertised in the telephone directory pages and listed in the Index? Are you "displaying your wares" in the show-window that is at every telephone user's elbow, every day in the year?

Now's just the time!

KELSEY HEALTH HEAT

YOU ask me how much it costs to install the Kelsey Health Heat. My answer is: Hot water costs about 20 per cent. more than steam to put in, but it costs less to run than steam.

The Kelsey costs somewhat less than water heat, but it costs less to run than either steam or water. We can prove to your entire satisfaction that it gives the most heat from the least coal.

It's healthy for you and your folks. It's extremely healthy for you and your pocketbook.

Look into the Kelsey.
